Composing Digital Media is a writing course that, through play and experimentation, engages with a wide variety of writing platforms, genres, and styles. We will use different forms of media throughout the writing process to take a close look at rhetorical choices in writing and the poetic, political, and sensory attributes of specific writing platforms. Classes will focus on theories of writing, composing, design, delivery, and accessibility as we each compose one multimodal project for the course.

This course fulfills the following requirements:
- DSAS Creative Work General Ed. Requirement
- Writing Intensive Course (WRIT)
- SCI Polymathic Contexts: Humanistic GE. Req.

No textbook required.
Instructor: Devon Pham. Email dep98@pitt.edu with any questions!